

JAPANESE LANGUAGE SCHOOL IN KYOTO

NIHONGO CENTER

おめでとう!!

The Japanese- Language Proficiency Test (JLPT) is to evaluate and certify proficiency on Japanese for non-native speakers. For foreigners who wishes to study or work in a Japanese company, having a JPLT qualification is necessary,

JLPT has five levels. With N1 being the highest level and N5 being the lowest. I took JPLT N2 level in Dec 2015 and was delighted that I managed to pass. It was a big challenge for me as I took N4 in July 2015 and decided to skip N3 and go for N2. The most difficult parts of the exam were not having enough time to complete the paper and the listening section, because the speaker spoke really fast.

With less than 6 months, how did I managed to do pass the test?

The school provide a lot of practice papers and also covered on all the test sections and going through them in class. Teachers have been very helpful in answering to any problems that I do not understand. Furthermore, we have mock JPLT in school too so that students can get a rough idea on how the test is going to be like, which I feel is important.

In my own opinion, I feel that most of the jobs requirement in Japan need at least JPLT N2 level. Even if I do not work in Japan, having a JPLT N2 will be merit point on my resume. On top of that, I wanted to challenge myself and was happy that I manage to achieve it.
